SOME HEAVY SLUMPS

New York Stock Market Raided from All Directions.

Distillers' and New England Were the Greatest Sufferers-No Session of the Indianapolis Board.

At New York, yesterday, money on call was easy at 1@1% per cent.

Prime mercantile paper, 31/2051/2. Sterling exchange was inactive, with actual business in bankers' bills at $4.86% @ 4.87 for demand, and at $4.84\4@4.84\6 for sixty days; posted rates, $4.85 and $4.871/4; commercial bills, $4.83\4@4.83\4.

of the requirements.

The banks now hold $77,936,776 in excess Sales of stocks were 149,900 shares. While New England was the leading stock in Saturday's speculation on the Stock Exchange and took up one-third of the dealings, there was a fairly active and welldistributed business in the rest of the list. The trading was on the bear side of the market, but the shorts did a little covering, which checked the downward tendency at frequent intervals and served to indicate that the short interest was not prepared to leave out very long lines over the Christmas holidays. The London Stock Exchange being closed until next Wednesday kept the arbitrage houses out of the market, confining the speculation to purely local lines. There were both selling and buying orders in New England from Boston, but the former largely outnumbered the latter, and a prominent broker said to be acting for persons usually well informed as to the company's affairs, was a large seller of New England. When it became known that a directors' meeting Friday had appointed Messrs. McLeod, Prince, Armstrong and Ervin a committee to raise the $200,required to meet the January interest, thus confirming the general belief that money had not yet been obtained, there was a rush to sell the stock, which became more pronounced when it was rumored that the opposition company had obtained centrol of New England's floating debt with the object of forcing a receivership. Under combined sales of long stock and for the short account the shares broke 4% per cent, amid considerable ex-citement. The lower range of values induced some buying, which resulted in a recovery of 1%, followed by a reaction of 1%, and a final rally of 1 per cent. The loss on the day was 2% per cent. The only other stock the sales of which reached 10,000 shares was Western Union, which, after advancing 1/8 at the opening, declined 11/4, closing at a recovery of %. A drive was made on Distilling, which sent it down 25% per cent., being based on alleged advices from Washington that the ways and means committee had not yet definitely decided to increase the spirit tax. When the pres-sure to sell was removed the shares quickly rallied and closed 1% above the lowest point touched. Atchison was held pretty steadily throughout the day, at one time being 1/8 higher than the closing figure of yesterday, then reacting %, and then recovering to and closing at yesterday's price. There was a general rally in the final dealings, and the market closed firmer but 14

@2% lower on the day, the latter in New England and 1% in Tobacco and Pittsburg and C., C., C. & St. L. preferred.

New Jersey Central shows an advance of 1 per cent, and some few other shares are a small fraction higher. The transactions of the week have resulted in a universal depreciation in values, there being scarcely a stock dealt in which has not declined from the closing price of Saturday last. BOSTON, Dec. 23.-There is no essential change in existing conditions in the wool market. There has been a fair attendance of buyers last week, but they have gathered apparently to talk tariff and have bought very little wool. In Ohio and Pennsylvania fleeces there is no change in quotations. Selected Pennsylvania XX is worth 25c and prices trailed down from that figure. Michigan wool is quite steady. There is no dis-position to break 20c for X, and fair wool of that grade has been sold at that price. The discount wools are scarce. Staple wools are steady; No. 1 and No. 2 washed combings show no alteration. A little washed quarter sold at 25c, but most of the business has been at 20c in the grease for both grades. Texas wools are weak. A fair quality may be had to-day at 36c clean. For short spring 35c is the limit and for fall 30c. Printed fabrics continue dull, with perhaps some of the cheaper grades of goods doing better than the more expensive. In ginghams and wash fabrics buyers are venturing only a little ways ahead. Woolen goods are flat. The jobbing trade, as expected, was almost at a standstill, owing to the holidays.

AFRAID OF INVESTIGATION. Why the House Refused an Inquiry Into Hawaiian Affairs. Washington Letter in Pittsburg Dispatch

The resolution offered by Representative McCreary, chairman of the House committee on foreign affairs, intended to smother all investigation of the acts of this administration toward Hawaii and confine it to the acts of the last administration, has been a subject of general discussion to-day. and severe adverse criticism is almost as general as the discussion. While Democrats in Congress will probably follow the lead of Crisp, McCreay and other leading Democrats who feel that the interests of Mr. Cleveland are in their hands in the House, they are, outside of this little circle, almost unanimous in their condemnation of the course of the managers as involving an exhibition of cowardice which cannot but recoil against the very interests they wish to serve. It is known that Mr. McCreary conferred with the President just previous to the introduction of the resolution, and it is therefore assumed that Mr. Cleveland himself inspired If this be true, it is accepted as good proof that Mr. Cleveland has become frightened at his own acts, and is using his power to have them slurred over and hidden from sight. A House Democrat said to the Dispatch correspondent to-day: "The most humiliating feature of this whole wretched business is the attempt of the agents of Mr. Cleveland to thwart a full investigation, even with the party preponderance largely on his side.

"A few weeks ago Gresham and Cleveland were loud in their deciarations that the honor, integrity and morality of the United States were in their hands and would be cared for by those who knew the meaning of the words. Now they are exerting themselves as they never did before to blockade every step toward an official inquiry into the methods by which they sought to preserve the honor of the country. This shows a tremendous lack of confidence in their own acts, and a timidity that is perfectly stupid.

"The House should not stand by the managers in their pitiful movement for suppression and concealment. It is a ridiculously mistaken policy, no matter whether or not the object of the Republicans is mere party advantage. The whole country, regardless of party, has been criticising Cleveland's attempt to restore the Hawaiian Queen, and the country wants to know the whole truth. It would have been much better that the Democrats themselves should have frankly sought the truth than that they should attempt to smother it by violent rulings of the Speaker and connivance of the managers at parliamentary tricks,"

This seems to be the prevailing senti-ment. The conduct of the House managers is the more severely criticised because it is in marked contrast to that of the Senate, which proposes to engage in a thorough, fearless, nonpartisan examination of the acts of the President from the standpoint of precedent, law and the Constitu-

STORY OF THE EVERGLADES.

Gen. Clinch and the Seminoles-Indian Generosity to an Enemy. Atlanta Journal.

Up to a few years ago all that was known of that vast inland sea on the southern border of Georgia called the Okefenokee swamp was that it had once been the stronghold of "Billy Bowlegs." Even those who had heard the euphonious name often enough to form some idea as to the topography of the swamp received an entirely erroneous impression of its character. They regarded it as a mere waste of malarial waters. Within the last two years, however, the invasion of capital into the recesses of its cypress and magnolla groves has revealed a wealth of natural resources and penetrated the Everglades with a regiment of his soldiers, his purpose being to induce the Semincle chiefs to sign a treaty relinquishing their possessions to the gov-erament. He pitched his tent in the heart of a swamp, and invited the Indian chieftains to a conference, at which they were to sign the papers ceding the land to the United States. The chief of the Seminoles at that time was a half-breed named Smith -a man of strikingly handsome appearance, over six feet in height, and as straight as an arrow. This leader, together with two of his subchiefs, was standing in Gen. Clinch's tent listening to the reading of the deed which took away their lands. At the conclusion of the reading the two subchiefs, who could neither read nor write, made their mark. Turning to Smith, who stood in contemplative mood, gazing with fixed eyes upon the paper before them, General Clinch asked:

"You can write your name, Smith?"
"Yes," he replied quickly, "but this is one time when I intend to make my mark." Quick as thought the powerful half-breed whipped out a long, keen knife, and, lightning-like, buried it to the hilt in the heart of one of the subchiefs, then in that of the other, and finally in the breast of the government agent, killing the three almost in-

The soldiers about General Clinch flew to arms and were in the act of making Smith their prisoner when he calmly called to them to look outside the tent. Doing so, they found the camp completely surrounded by a band of at least 3,000 Indian braves, ready to obey their chief's command. Smith did not order the massacre of the company, but without as much as harming a hair of the head of General Clinch or any of his soldiers, marched them to the edge of the swamp, and in parting said:

"Now, General Clinch, you and your soldiers may go, but I warn you that if ever a white man places his foot upon our lands again he had better beware of the Seminoles.' As General Clinch marched his men away the Indian braves enthusiastically crowded about their great chief, and, raising him high upon their shoulders, cried out in a mighty chorus, "Osceola! Osceola!" which means "the rising sun." This was the be-ginning of the Seminole war, and it was in this way that the half-breed chieftain received the name by which he is known to

The end of his career is familiar to all. The manner in which he was enticed to Washington, where he attracted much attention and was the "observed of all observers," under cover of a flag of truce, and his confinement until his death in Fort Moultrie, at Charleston, are well remembered. Smith's successor in command of the Seminoles was Biliy Bowlegs, a chief of diminutive stature, but undaunted courage. During the war which followed Billy found refuge in Okefenokee swamp, and one of the principal islands of the inland sea now bears his name. Okefenokee swamp was, until 1890, the property of the State of Georgia. An act of the Legislature, approved in Ocober, 1889, provided for swamp to the highest bidder, the minimum price being fixed at 121/2 cents an acre. When the bids were opened by Governor Gordon, March 18, 1890, that offering 261/2 cents per acre was accepted.

HARLEQUIN FINANCE.

Absurdity of Low Tariff with a Prospective Treasury Deficit. New York Sun.

The government is now spending at the rate of $6,000,000 a month more than it earns. That is to say, it is running behind at the rate of $72,000,000 a year. As imports are likely to decrease still further on account of the hard times, and the anticipation of tariff legislation reviving, lowering or otherwise changing certain duties, the hole will probably be greater than is indicated by the figures for the past five months. The government is thus likely to be $72,000,00 or more to the bad by June 30, 1894. This condition cannot be improved as far as the present fiscal year is concerned.

The Hen. Penton G. McMillin puts the deficiency made by the Wilson bill at $62,000,-

000. Suppose the ways and means committee screw up some of the internal taxes and devise new ones so as to fill up the hole made by the Wilson bill. The $72,000,000 cavity remains. How is it to be filled if the Wilson bill is stalled? The talk about cutting down expenditures twenty or thirty millions is fudge. A large amount of ex-penditure is fixed; and what security, or even hope, can there be that men who have torn up their pledge to make a tariff for revenue only will feel themselves bound to administer the government economically? Did ever a set of men posing as economists get themselves into a sorrier plight than Prof. Wilson's committee? Who but the Lord Treasurer of the King of the Cannibal islands would ever think of diminishing his income for the purpose of paying his debts? The gentleman who jumped into the bar-berry bush was a financial allegory prefiguring this bedeviled committee. We are going to be $72,000,000 short. We will get square by reducing our income by $62,000,-000. Here is finance that seems to come from a Christmas pantomime and breathes the rich humor of Pantaloon. Yet if Pantaloon found that the manager was recouping himself for losses and bad business by positively extending the free list Pantaloon would have that manager hauled before a lunacy commission immediately.

Ensilage in Indiana. Farmer, in Kokomo Tribune.

The ensilaging of green corn has been practiced in this country fully twenty years, and in Europe much longer. Among the early American experimenters on the silo was Prof. Miles, of the Illinois Industrial University. He tells us that "pre-serving green food by burial has been widely practiced since about 1850." Up to 1880 there were few silos built of wood. They were either excavations made in a hillside or else large vats made of solid masonry. This partially accounts for its tardy appearance. Not every farm af-forded a favorable hill in which the excavation could be made, and not every farmer could afford the necessary cash with which to build the expensive stone vats. Experience has proven that the wooden silo is better in every respect than stone. To my knowledge there are only two silos in this county. Both of them were built and filled last fall. One may be seen at the farm of W. W. Smith, five miles west of Kokomo; the other at David Greeson's farm, four miles south of Kokomo. Their construction is similar, both being built in the barn about as follows: In a section of the barn the four posts are used for the frame of the silo, which incloses a space about ten feet square and twenty-two feet high. Horizontal studding (2x10 inches) are placed twenty inches apart, on which are nailed rough five-eighths-inch plank; inside of this the sho is lined with heavy two-ply paper roofing, with the edges well lapped and cemented. On this is put a good ship-lap pine and well fitted at the corners of the silo, and this pine well coated with coal tar completes the sides of an air-tight vat. The bottom is made of Louisville cement. The filling of the silo should begin as soon as the corn is in good hard roasting ears; cut the fodder, corn and all, into about inch lengths; put into the silo and pack as tightly as possible. When the silo is full let it settle a day or two, then put cut straw or hay on top about one foot

These silos will hold about forty tons of ensilage. This amount should be raised on less than three acres of land, although it was not done this year. This will feed, allowing eighty pounds (two bushels) to a cow each day, one cow 1,000 days; or the ensilage from one acre will feed one cow 323 1-3 days. This means that one cow can be fed almost one year from one acre of ground. This is no theory, but actual fact. Our farms do not average one cow (or horse either) to five acres of land, When the silo is filled, in September, the work is completed. No after labor necessary to make it more secure. Its perfect protection from the weather and the ease and dispatch with which it can be fed, all combine to make popular this new, yet old, method of preserving America's greatest of all crops, the maize plant, nature's best gift to the farmer. In answer to the query, "Do the cattle like it?" we will say, call and let the cattle speak for themselves.

Highly Gratifying.

Philadelphia Telegraph. It is gratifying to know that Prendergast's family "would not object" to a sen-tence of life imprisonment upon him for the murder of Mayor Harrison. The "family." it seems, will not listen to any proposition to hang Prendergast. Such convictions and such determination on the part of relatives of murderers are most impressive, and the counsel who can deliberately set them forth in court shows a coolness that is marked even in this frigid season.

The Hawaiian Situation.

In this article we have put the President's view in a paragraph; we can put our own in a sentence. A nefarious govern-ment has been deposed by a revolution, and a reputable one set up in its place-whether by the aid of the United States forces or not is a disputed question; it is not our right, much less our duty, to depose the reputable government and set up the nefarious one.
